ATMOSPHERE DURING THE AGM OF SOCIÉTÉ GÉNÉRALE

19.05.2015, PARIS

By Julie Hosteing

As the President answered the question on which good practices he wanted to share at a European level, he showed the engagement of Société Générale for progress in this area. Indeed, women chair half of the committees that support the Executive Board with leading the company. He pointed out that in the general directorate, there are 20% of women and they set themselves an objective of 30%. For them, reaching gender equality is a necessary step to take. To illustrate this engagement, the President evoked the creation of a diversity committee.

All in all, the atmosphere in the AGM was good and the response of the audience was positive. However, gender equality was far from being the main topic.
